Colleen Brezine, MSN, CNM Certified Nurse Midwife

Colleen Brezine is an established Certified Nurse Midwife in the Cleveland area. For more than 15 years her practice has provided care focusing on a woman’s individual choices throughout her life cycle. Colleen graduated in 1997 from Case Western Reserve University, where she earned a master of science degree in nurse midwifery. Her focus is family centered care while encouraging women to participate in the decision-making process. Colleen follows a program of care designed in the wellness model and is guided by principles of prevention, sensitivity, safety, and appropriate medical intervention.

Erin Callahan, MS, CNM Certified Nurse Midwife

Erin Callahan has been a practicing nurse midwife since 1998, preceded by another 18 years as an obstetrics nurse. She received her master of science in nursing degree from Case Western Reserve University’s Frances Payne Bolton School of Nursing, and her bachelor degree in nursing from Bowling Green State University and the Medical College of Ohio. She is certified in Nurse Midwifery, NCC Fetal Monitoring and NAACP Colposcopy. She is a member of the American College of Nurse Midwives, the American Association of Certified Midwives, the Association of Women’s Health Practitioners and the American Society of Colposcopy and Cervical Pathology.

Sharon Johnson, MS, CNM Certified Nurse Midwife

Sharon received a nursing degree from St. Petersburg College in Florida, and her master’s degree in nurse midwifery from Philadelphia University in 2000. As a midwife, Sharon focuses on the woman, her family and their needs whether before, during or after pregnancy and birth. She believes that each woman has the right to be involved in her care and guide her own experiences. Her first priority is to ensure the health and safety of women and their families, and especially enjoys the waterbirth experience and caring for teens.

Maureen Stein-Vavro, MSN, CNM Certified Nurse Midwife

Most of Maureen Stein-Vavro’s 25 years of midwifery experience has taken place delivering babies in the western suburbs of Greater Cleveland, and her many deliveries have included seven nieces and nephews. Maureen graduated with a nursing degree from Bowling Green State University, and received her master’s degree and midwifery training from the University of Kentucky. It is Maureen’s philosophy that midwifery is a family centered health profession focusing on women as partners in their care through wellness and prevention. Emphasis is placed on facilitating a safe, satisfying childbirth for families through nurturing and spending time getting to know each patient’s individual needs throughout the experience.

Colleen Zelonis, RN, MSN, CNM Certified Nurse Midwife

Colleen Zelonis has been practicing as a nurse midwife at St. John Medical Center since 2006, preceded by more than 25 years experience as a labor and delivery nurse. Colleen supports and encourages a woman’s birth plan, whether it is a no/low intervention water birth, epidural anesthesia, vaginal birth attempt after a prior cesarean section (VBAC), or a repeat cesarean section. Colleen received her master’s degree in nursing from Case Western Reserve University in 2001, and received midwifery certification from the Frontier School of Midwifery and Family Nursing the same year.
